1916! What's It Going To Be?

Breezelets

The second Christmas has come and gone since the kaiser made his great drive to Paris and London.

And the kaiser is still sixty miles from Paris, and hasn't as yet, eaten his roast beef and Christmas plum pudding in "Old Lunnun."

The best laid schemes of the prophet of Potsdam seem destined to go wrong.

Never mind, the kaiser will the better enjoy his Christmas dinner in—the Tower of London—for the waiting a third Christmas.

The other day, an elevator man at Federal, Alta, was accused of weighing on scales so as to cheat the farmer, by using a five-inch spike on the weighing beam, and then taking it off when weighing the wagon.

But one of his victims spiked the spiker and had him arrested

That Federal man was not only guilty of breaking a federal law, but was adding insult to the already much-abused farmer.

And the man who perpetrates such a dirty little fraud should have that five-inch spike attached to his nose for six months as a caution to all other would-be spikers.

A few old pipes were noticed on our streets on New Year's morn.

Looks like some new year's resolution souvenirs.

Some others, however, made similar good resolutions, but put their pipes and baccy where they could be easily found—for future use.

While Ford's peace ship was anchored near London the British authorities discovered, tied up in mail bags, several thousand lbs. of rubber destined for Germany by first entering a neutral country

The rubber was promptly confiscated by the British government.

Henry Rubber-neck's "peace" joke received a rude jolt, and will no doubt be taken for what it is worth.

It seems as hard to get truth about Ford as about the war.

Station Agent Strong expects shortly to be moved to Craigmyle

The new council took the oath of office and held their first meeting on Monday evening.

Very Few Escaping Its Embrace

The la grippe has Chinook in its grip pretty hard. There is scarcely a home but what is being visited by its presence—some being very severe cases.

New Teacher of the Junior Room

Miss Semple, who has been engaged to take charge of the junior room of the town school, arrived here on Saturday, and commenced her duties Monday morning.

Was Fittingly Observed Here

Last Sunday was set apart by the Governor-General as a day of prayer throughout the dominion for peace. The occasion was fittingly observed at the evening service in the Chinook church.

Returns to This Mundane Sphere Once More

Mr. M. L. Chapman and his bride returned home from their honeymoon on Wednesday, much to the delight of the kiddies, who gave the happy couple a right royal welcome return.

Hope for Speedy Recovery

We regret to learn that Mrs. Gilbert is very seriously ill, we believe, at the hospital at Saskatoon. Her many friends sincerely hope that she may be out of danger and on the road to a speedy recovery.

Goes to Drumheller

Miss Lillian Irvine, who has had charge of the junior room of Chinook public school during the past twelve months, left on Sunday morning for Drumheller, where she takes up similar duties. We are sorry to lose Miss Irvine from the school, where she has done some excellent work. We wish her every success in her new duties.

Enters the Order of Benedicts

Word has been received in town of the marriage of Mr. J. W. Lawrence (who recently went to Clarksburg, Ont.) to Miss Emma Bole of Thornbury, Ont. The ceremony was performed at Toronto. His many friends here wish him and his bride every happiness, prosperity and long life. Boys, that charivari can wait until J. W. returns to Chinook.

R. Clarke Fraser, Sec.-Treas.

The 89th battalion has now ceased recruiting, having obtained within a few of the full strength and has vacated with its pipes the offices on Eighth avenue.

The Germany secretary of the treasury makes a speech declaring that the British empire is doomed. But the British empire has been hearing that statement in its own parliament for hundreds of years.

Many a man wastes as much energy on trying to get an easy living as would gain conspicuous success for him if it were rightly applied.

Chinook Breezes

The days have begun to lengthen. Does that encourage you any?

"As the days lengthen the cold strengthens" has been fully verified this week.

Was Quietly Ushered In

The new year was quietly ushered in in town. Some watched the new year in at home, while a number danced the old year out and the year in at the hall.

Slowly Recovering

The many friends of Mrs. R. Clarke Fraser will be pleased to learn that she is recovering—though slowly—from a four-weeks serious illness from gripe and plury.

Another "Wolfin"

It's getting quite hard work to keep track of the weddings in this district. The latest victims are Jack Smith and Miss Allen of Heatdendale, which Jack says took place a month or two ago, but only made known on Tuesday evening last, and then only by accident. However, Jack did the handsome with the boys. Congratulations are in order, if not too late.

Of Interest to Farmers

SUES THE BANK FOR MONEY LOST IN SALE OF GRAIN

Charles Short, a Brooks farmer does not think very much of bankmen and their agents as expert grain sellers, for he intimates in a statement filed in court at Calgary that they sold his grain which they should have by proper marketing made 20 cents a bushel. The trouble arose over the seizure of his crop on a rented farm by a bank in which they gathered in 1700 bushels of wheat which they proceeded to sell and convert to money to their own use. This was afterwards arranged to be sold by an agent of the defendant and the money to be deposited to the credit of both parties.

Now Farmer Short says that owing to the seizure he was unable to sell at the nearest elevator and the haulage of the grain to a distant point meant a loss of $249. Moreover, they were forced to sell when the market was not at its best, which meant a loss of $340. In all his estimates of the damage he has suffered is $589, which he wishes to collect.

Mary's Lamb in Prose

Miss Mary was the possessor of a diminutive and immature specimen of the Ovis Aries, a wool-bearing and ruminating quadruped.

The shaggy and agglomerated filaments constituting in their collective capacity its natural outer covering, presented to the vision a surface rivaling in immaculateness the lustrous mantle of crystallized the winter landscape.

And to whatever locality, contiguous or remote, whither Mary's vagrant fancy, the call of duty, or perchance the parental mandate, impelled her—when not otherwise engaged—to betake herself, this representative of the genus Ovis Aries, with a fidelity remarkable in one so immature and inexperienced, could be counted upon with absolute and entire certainty to accompany her.

Point of View Is Everything

We have often insisted that, given certain conditions, the point of view is everything. The point of view can be found in a recent letter to an English paper, in which the writer tells us that he has been invited by the Institution, the publicist press and public, very much as Admiral John Hawkins testified against the "old man" who shot at the gowls; with Drake, with the Armada in sight. A certain young officer, says the modern Sir John, showed up at the front of the trenches, and returned to the trenches with these words: "England's all very well to live in, people are all right, but I don't like it very depressing." I'm going back there every evening,"—Christian Science Monitor.

British Wounded Well Cared For

Mary Yarlett, Weaver, of the Canadian Forces Hospital, at his father's home in Manchester, says:

"The wounded are extraordinarily well cared for. As soon as they are brought in, the attendants find if the soldier or man receives a wound at all serious, he is sent to England at once, where he is treated in the best hospital. Supplies are wonderful. We have hot meals in the trenches, besides tea, cheese and a cup of turn twice weekly."

There Appears to be a Vast Difference

Until the allies hold Germany in their grip there is but one way in which to deal with talk about peace. To regard it as what it is, one more German trick, and an old and favorite one with Bismarck. A trick to gain time. A trick to confuse feeble minds and encourage the sentimentalists. A trick, above all to veil a more vigorous prosecution of the war.—London, Dec. 11, 1914.

CHAPTER XLVIII.
More From the Past

Tchigorsky was waiting. The room was pregnant with the perfume of Turkish cigarettes and coffee. Ralph looked at his nephew.

"Think that," he said. "You want something to keep you awake?"

Geoffrey accepted the coffee gratefully. "It had the desired effect," he felt the clouds lifting from his brain and the drowsy heaviness of limb leaving him.

"Are you coming with us?" he asked.

Ralph shook his head. There was a strange gleam on his face.

"I stay here," he said. "You are going to be busy, but I am not. I do not. Do not be concerned for me. Blind as I am, I am capable of taking care of myself. I shall have a deal to tell you in the morning."

A minute or two later and the two conspirators slipped away. It struck Geoffrey as strange that they should not leave the house in the usual way, but Tchigorsky explained the matter.

"He much preferred using the ivy outside Ralph's window."

"Always be on the safe side," Tchigorsky muttered. "Come along," Geoffrey followed. Where Tchigorsky could go he felt competent to follow. They reached the group in safety and later were in the room. The mood had gone and it was intensely dark, but Geoffrey knew the way perfectly.

"Straight to Jessop's farm?" he asked.

"As far as the lawn," Tchigorsky replied. "It will be a good hour yet before we can venture to carry out our burglary. I can run no risks until I know that those two Asiatics are out of the way. When they are gone, I will draw a watch from his pocket: there was a stilled wrist of machinery, and the repeater's rapid pulse beat twelve with the silver watch of some man after the wrong."

"You are wrong," he said. "You see it is between a quarter and half past twelve. We will be in Jessop's lawn till one o'clock and then all will be safe."

They lay there waiting for the time to pass. The minutes seemed to be weighted. "I tell you some more of your Lassa adventures," Geoffrey asked.

"Very well," Tchigorsky replied. "Where did I leave off? Ah, we had just been tortured on that awful grid. And we had been offered our lives on condition that we consented to be hopeless idiots for the rest of our days."

"Well, we were not going to live in these circumstances, you may be sure. The next few days we had to live on our own resources in a dark domain with the huge rats and vermin for company. We had to make our way into the bargain, and when we were brought into the light once more they naturally expected to find us dead."

"But they didn't get it. They did not realize the story we were made of. And they had no idea how we were armed. In our pockets were some fifty rounds of ammunition if I am not mistaken. The worst we should not die without a struggle."

"...there was a huge palaver over us before the priests in the big temple, with Zara on her throne, and a few impressive scene it was, or at least, it would have been had we not been so interested as to our own immediate future. At any rate, it was a cut short to know that there were no more chances for the present, for nothing of the kind was to be seen. We were going to die, and we were to be remembered in the eyes of the priests long before the elaborate mummery."

DANGER SIGNALS.

No engineer would be mad enough to run by the flag which signalled danger. What this danger was he might not understand, but he would take no chances. It is different with the average man or woman. They attempt to carry on as usual, to ignore the danger signals of nature and the attempt ends in disaster. Thousands of lives every year. When the appetite becomes irregular or entirely gives out, when sleep is troubled and broken, when there is a loss of flesh, when there is a constant feeling of dizziness or when the organs are failing in their work, the body is in danger. The stomach and the allied organs are failing in their work and the body is in danger. The strength of the body is failing. Such a condition leads to the prompt use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It is the world's proved blood purifier. It is a secret remedy for its ingredients are printed on the wrapper. Start to take it today and before long the blood has passed, the impurities of the blood will begin to leave your body through the liver, kidneys, bowels and skin, and in a few days you will know by your steady nerves, better sleep, keener mind, brighter eyes and clearer skin that the blood is being purified and new, rich blood is filling your arteries.

Planning for the Season's Work

By A. P. Marshall, Niagara Falls, Can.,
Breeder, Niagara White Wyandottes

At this time when we have rounded up the product of the season and know to a large extent the result of our efforts, no doubt many will be giving consideration to the planning for the coming year. It is not too early to plan now and it may be that the value of doing this early may bring a considerable improvement in the breeding work. It was ready to meet all necessities and had his work planned so as to bring the best results before it was too late.

Without some future definite objective, the result will be a very little good result would be possible. Whether it is to win some show or to produce something that will make better results possible in the matter of eggs or meat or to bring bigger profit in some way or other, it seems quite clear that unless some such ideal is set in mind the routine that must be followed will be a very haphazard and unprofitable one. The first interest and make the work so comprehensive that it will be much neglected and poor results secured just as fast as grass is green.

When we hear of men arranging so that the growing chicks can be fed at 4:30 a.m. and of others giving an extra feed at 10 p.m. surely we can realize that such arrangements must be due to a great ambition to set records. It is not the making of a plan that will produce just a little better than the man who will not take every precaution that will be helpful in securing the best possible. Heavy milking cattle are probably fed considerably more than milking birds, but in a great many dairies it has compelled the owners to insert an extra milking machine on the farm. The result of the very best producing methods have developed a routine that brings results that are beyond question. Many who have chickens could very much improve their returns by giving their birds the same attention and the work along that way. It is positively to be better than they are at present. The best of the best producing methods have a season that will be full of profitable return and be a pleasure to the breeder.

When a photographer develops a picture he can tell pretty well why it did not come up to his standard. He can see in a general way what has gone wrong with the results. He has the blame and the credit of the finished product. Of course it is not as easy, but so much may be indicated by a few minutes' study. This can be seen in the breeders and the product. If the birds have not grown up to the standard, the breeder can see in the feeding, or the environment. And of these things may be the most important. The breeder has no sort of judgment and by planning now, doubtless a recitation of the same mistakes will be avoided.

There is one thing that all can settle as advisable and that is that only the best of the best should be retained and that any falling below the requirements of the breeder should be discarded. This may seem a very strict rule to follow, but anyone who has become accustomed to the best quality of stock can only when that is done can the best progress be expected. In many cases the breeder is not so strict. The crows are the birds that produce a large amount of milk records are kept to see that all crows are keeping up the average. Any falling below an average that is set as essential is not to be considered. The breeder is in place. In large manufacturing plants, when everything is running full swing and the machinery is in good order, it is not so serious of production to have poor workers using machines that might produce more with more skilled workers. High production then can only be secured by the best workers. It is just the same with the hens. Birds that cannot take their places should be removed for the others to bring the best results possible with them.

Improvement sometimes involves the introduction of some good blood from some reliable breeder. He is working down his flock to the best of his breed. He is just as careful of his blood as the breeder of the horse. It is just as important that he pays well to secure what may be wanted as early as possible. It usually means a little better selection. It is possible to give the breeder a good idea of what is needed in birds. He can do better for while a bird might be better perhaps than another one of the same breed, this bird might be the best breeder for the flock on account of its being strong in points where the other flock was lacking. Naturally when a breeder sends the best value he can at a price paid and if he only has a few birds to sell, he might have a few birds to sell. The breeder should be strong in his customer's requirements. Every time the breeder is asked to give him a few birds, he should be the gainer by it. The breeder shipping birds as he does, can do better for while a bird might be better perhaps than another one of the same breed, this bird might be the best breeder for the flock on account of its being strong in points where the other flock was lacking. Naturally when a breeder sends the best value he can at a price paid and if he only has a few birds to sell, he might have a few birds to sell. The breeder should be strong in his customer's requirements. Every time the breeder is asked to give him a few birds, he should be the gainer by it.

"I ain't got on track," said he, "but that's how I'd fix it."

The Saskatchewan Yield

Wheat Crop This Year Greater Than Any Since 1901, Says Department

In a final report on the grain crop of Saskatchewan, the provincial department of agriculture states the average yield per acre is 25.2 bushels of wheat, 45.9 bushels of oats, 33.2 bushels of barley and 11.2 bushels of flax. In 1901 the wheat averaged 25.4 bushels to the acre, the only time the yield was greater than this year. Oats exceeded this year's yield in 1909.

Wheat—Average, 6,884,874 acres; average yield, 25.2 bushels; total yield, 173,723,775 bushels.

Oats—Average, 2,816,498 acres; average yield, 45.9 bushels; total yield, 130,910,008 bushels.

Barley—Average, 27,296 acres; average yield, 33.2 bushels; total yield, 905,412 bushels.

Flax—Average, 59,074 acres; average yield, 11.2 bushels; total yield, 661,829 bushels.

Land prepared for the 1915 crop, 1916—Wheat, 7,252,553 acres; summerfallowing, 2,035,841 acres; fall plowing, 1,721,497 acres; total prepared for 1915 crop, 4,501,581 acres.

Electricity "Pinched" From Germans

For downright ingenuity and daring, the following incident, told by a farmer in C. W. Farmstead, of the Royal Irish Rifles, has few parallels:

"On one occasion our telephone cables were cut by the Germans. Without asking leave from the German authorities, our linesman promptly fixed wires and carried them to the German headquarters, the dressing station, officers' dugouts, etc. Lamps were found in the German houses, a village just behind, and for many weeks a first class electric installation was in full operation with power 'pinched' from Germany."

"The spirit of the navy remains unchanged whatever the dangers which confront it," writes Mr. Ashmead, who has written a book to describe it better than by quoting what was found by the censor in the letters of a sailor.

"Mother, it is sometimes very hot out here when the shells are dropping and you don't know where the submarines are hovering round, and you may strike a mine at any minute. At first I was a bit scared, but I remembered the words of the padre last Sunday, when he said, 'Men, men, in times of trial and danger, look upwards.' I did look upwards, mother, and if there wasn't a blooming aeroplane dropping bombs on us."

Sir Adam Beck, who is the chief of the remount department for the Canadian government, states that no more horses were being bought for a while at least. There are enough remounts in England, he said, to supply all the units and meet any wastage for some time to come.

TWO NERVOUS WOMEN

Made Well By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I had a severe case of nervous prostration, with palpitation of the heart, constipation, nervous headaches, dizziness, noise in my ears, timid, nervous, restless feelings and sleeplessness."

"I read in the paper where a young woman had been cured of the same troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I threw away the medicine the doctor let me and began taking the Compound. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to get up and in a short time I was able to do almost all my work. Your medicine has proved itself able to do all you say it will and I have recommended it in every household. I have visited."—Mrs. Mary Donohoe, 210 Second Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Another Case.

Ephrata, Pa.—"About a year ago I was down with nervous prostration. I was pale and weak and would have hysterical spells, sick headaches and a bad nervous headache. I was under the care of different doctors but did not improve. I was so weak I could hardly stand long enough to do my dishes."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me well and happy and I have been able to gain in weight and my face looks healthy now."—Mrs. J. W. NOLLSBERGER, R. No. 3, Ephrata, Pa.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Later she would perhaps find it difficult to account for masquerading in the castle in that strange guise. That she would have been so ingenious as to put forward Ralph felt certain. But the dress was another matter. Ralph happened to himself as he thought of it.

(To be Continued)

If the breeders are not right the best equipment in the world will never produce the best breeder. The breeder is looking for the matter seriously. We might go on and enumerate a number of things that anyone who will consider the matter seriously could not help but think particularly bear on their own particular cases. The reason why so many keep right on making the same mistakes and getting the same unsatisfactory results year after year is because they do not really try to figure out cause and effect as they could see it in their own individual cases and which they could remedy better than anyone could suggest. If anyone who is really trying to make for improvement will honestly think the matter out, plan so far as they can and try to outline their work we feel sure it will develop a system that will be bound to help before the season is through.

Winter Feed for Horses

Work Horses Entitled to a Share of the Best Farm Affords

Too often the faithful old farm horse is neglected and not allowed his rightful share of the grain and hay. Of course it is right to suppose that the horses should be wintered as cheaply as possible, but it should be remembered that he is entitled to a share of the best farm affords; to keep up his health and strength, and a comfortable shelter from the cold and wet of the season.

Our straw in small proportions with timothy hay and oats is all right for the horse which is asked to do a day's work. Needs just as much consideration in winter as in the months while it is worked in the field. Clover hay which is free from mold and dust is the best and most digestible thing for the horse.

The horse enjoys a change of food and should have it now and then. A hot bran mash and a few sliced potatoes will be appreciated.

Brood mares do well on a ration of oat straw and corn stalks to pick at between meals. They should also receive a few pounds of grain. Brood mare needs exercise in the open air every day and do all the horses, it is a good plan to turn them in a small yard and give them a few stalks to pick over; it will take up their attention and they will feed the col. Less horses should never be allowed to eat the straw stalks with the crows, as it is not good for either the cows or horses. Cattle often have bad colics, and the discharge from their nostrils is caught in the straw. Horses should not swallow it, as it is almost sure to create disease. On the other hand, the crows do not enjoy being driven about by the horses; who are nearly always "bossy," and do not allow the cows a chance to eat as they ought.

The manager of a factory recently engaged a new man and gave instructions to the foreman to instruct him in his duties. A few days later the manager inquired whether the new man was progressing with his work. The foreman replied that he had not. The manager then asked the foreman to explain the reason. The foreman replied that the new man was not getting on with his work. The manager then asked the foreman to explain the reason. The foreman replied that the new man was not getting on with his work.

"Progressing," he have taught him a lot of progress, but he is still an ignorant fool."

A member of the business staff of Robert Mantel, the actor, tells of a conversation he overheard "in front" on the occasion of Mr. Mantel's production of "Hamlet" in a western town.

"Oh, Harry," said the young woman. "I think it's an awful shame to drown Ophelia and kill Hamlet. They ought to have been married."

Whereupon Harry heaved a sigh and looked earnestly at his companion.

"I ain't got on track," said he, "but that's how I'd fix it."

Must Have Passport

Better Not Try to Leave Country Without Necessary Document

Since the announcement of the departure of external affairs that all British subjects travelling to Great Britain must secure passports, there have been prepared by the undersigned to the method of procuring them.

Forms of application for passports have been prepared by the undersigned for external affairs. Forms may be secured at his office by writing, but in order to prevent delay application blanks have been sent to most of the Canadian banks and British steamship agencies. These forms, giving particulars of citizenship, description of traveller, etc., must be accompanied by a declaration made by either a mayor, magistrate, minister of immigration, barrister, physician, surgeon, solicitor, or notary public.

There must also be forwarded two photographs of the applicant. There is no delay at the department in forwarding the passport, which is usually mailed the same day the application is received.

"The truest philosopher," says Jerome N. Jerome, "is I ever heard of a woman. She was brought into a London hospital suffering from a point of view. The house surgeon made a hurried examination. He was a man of blunt speech."

"It will have to come off," he told her.

"What, not all of it?"

"The whole of it, I am sorry to say," growled the house surgeon.

"Nothing else for it?"

"No other chance for you whatever," explained the house surgeon.

"Ah, well, thank God it's not my ear," observed the lady.

Chinook Breezes

A meeting of the Women's Institute is to be held on Saturday afternoon, January 8th, in the Chinook schoolhouse.

About twenty five joined the Rebecka Lodge which was organized in Chinook on Wednesday. We are not authorized to say anything about the initiation of the members. It was in the wee sma' hours of the morn before it was concluded.

Remember the "literary evening" on Friday, Jan. 14th. These meetings are both interesting and instructive. The discussion last meeting brought out very many original thoughts, which were pretty good. The programme for next week, which promises to be a very interesting one, will be found on another page.

Faces Another Trouble

CIVIL ACTION OUT OF SHOOTING CHARGE

In addition to the serious charges which Fred Johnston of Helmsdale (the particulars of which were published in these columns two weeks ago, under the heading of "Attempted murder near Oyen") has to face in connection with his remarkable activities at the home of John Wesley Johnston, his brother, on December 14th last, he now has a civil action on hand. Fred Johnston is now a prisoner in the barracks at Calgary awaiting trial on a charge of attempted murder.

J. W. Johnston, on his own account and also on behalf of Alexia and Ellis Johnston, his children, has entered suit for $4500, of which amount there is the sum of $2,500 for Alexia, who it is stated, is permanently disabled, and $1,000 each for the father and the other child.

An injunction is also asked for restraining Fred Johnston from selling or otherwise disposing of his property.

They will help you to estimate the cost beforehand, order the materials, erect the buildings and make the fullest use of them. They will prove of real value to every prairie farmer.
